

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to novel drugs which may be used in combating infectious micro-organisms, particularly bacteria. More specifically, the invention relates to peptide nucleic acid (PNA) sequences that are modified by conjugating cationic peptides to the PNA moiety in order to obtain novel PNA molecules that exhibit enhanced anti-infective properties

PANT-0300